

Quiz & Answers 13-090

1. There are no differences between a scissor lift and an aerial lift. True or False
2. The use of fall protection is required when using both types (scissor and aerial) of lifts. True or False
3. The articulating boom platform is a type of scissor lift with at least one joint in the arm. True or False
4. Extensible boom platforms use a single arm to lift the platform to the desired height. True or False
5. Scissor lifts usually reach higher than aerial lifts. True or False
6. Training is required for all employees operating or working on a lift. True or False
7. Training should include the nature of any lift hazards, electrical hazards, fall hazards and falling object hazards in the work area. True or False
8. Employers must ensure that employees are familiar with the lift they are asked to use. True or False
9. Additional training is required when changes in the worksite present a hazard that was not previously known to the employee. True or False
10. Training records should be maintained for at least four years. True or False
11. When selecting a lift to use, the type of work being performed, the terrain in which it will be used and the cost of renting the lift are all factors that must be considered for safety reasons. True or False
12. A pre-start inspection of the lift must be performed before each use of any lift. True or False
13. All safety guards should be checked for malfunctions during the pre-start inspection. True or False
14. Lifts should never be modified without written permission from the manufacturer or other equivalent entity. True or False
15. Belting off to an adjacent pole or structure while working from a lift is permitted. True or False
16. Lifts should never be used as a crane unless the manufacturer has designed it to do so. True or False
17. If using fall protection, sitting on the sides of a lift basket is permissible when working on elevated structures. True or False
18. Fall protection is required for all employees that perform work on a lift. True or False
19. Guardrails that are properly designed, maintained and meet OSHA requirements qualify as fall protection on scissor lifts. True or False
20. If the lift is used according to manufacturer's guidelines and all safety precautions are followed, the chance of any fall is minimal. True or False

I understand the information contained in this training program and have passed the quiz regarding Aerial and Scissor Lift Safety.

Printed Name

Signature

Date

Aerial and Scissor Lift Safety Program #13-090
www.osha-safety-training.net